How did you wash those woollies?

"IT does look nice, doesn't it? These woolly suits get out of shape so soon if they're washed carelessly, but there's one easy and safe way of washing them. I just give them half an hour's soaking in a lukewarm Rinso solution—NO RUBBING—a thorough rinse through and then, when the water is squeezed out, I put them to dry flat. This one I tacked on to an old pillowcase first.

Feel it, there's no matting or soapiness about it, is there?"

The Rinso way of washing is the modern way, the way of science.

The pure Rinso granules dissolve easily in water, and foam into a cleansing solution which works through the fibres of the cloth, loosening the dirt without the necessity of rubbing. Rinsing then floats the dirt off and carries it away. There are no acids, no harsh chemicals in Rinso to harm clothes or hands. Rinso can be safely used cold or hot or boiling.

BANISHING COLDS, 'FLU And RHEUMATISM IS CHILD'S PLAY TO 'ASPRO'

Here is the Reason

'ASPRO' claims to smash a 'flu or cold attack up in one night and it has published testimony from time to time proving that it does it. It is the only popular medicine, as far as we can trace, in the civilised world, THAT HAS EVER BEEN PROCLAIMED A NECESSARY COMMODITY BY THE GOVERNMENT OF ANY COUNTRY. This is what the Federal Government of Australia did when pneumonic influenza swept throughout that country. Just why 'ASPRO' smashes up a 'flu attack is because when ingested in the system it is an anti-pyretic or a fever destroyer, and also an internal antiseptic and powerful germicide. The reason why 'ASPRO' smashes up a rheumatic attack with almost magical frequency and effectiveness is because it is a solvent of Uric Acid. Many physicians believe that you cannot have rheumatism unless you have Uric Acid in your system. As 'ASPRO' is a solvent of Uric Acid one might also say that if you take 'ASPRO' you cannot have rheumatism. The rest of this advertisement is being used to publish "living proof" from actual users. The best way, however, to prove 'ASPRO' is to give it a trial. 'ASPRO' brings sweet sleep to the sleepless, relieves rheumatism in one night, banishes headache like magic, stops growing pains, clears out colds and influenza with all its feverish and weakening conditions, dispels neuralgia and nerve pains, and soothes the irritable.

FLU BANISHED MARVELLOUS CHANGE IN ONE NIGHT

60 Swyncombe Avenue, Ealing, W.5.

Dear Sirs,
I feel I must write you re your 'ASPRO'. I was travelling home about a fortnight ago feeling stiff from head to foot and a splitting headache when I saw your advert. in the "Star". I Take Hot Lemonade and 3 'ASPRO' Tablets" to break up the 'flu. I did so that night and when next morning was surprised at the alteration all ache was gone and the cold was practically gone. My son also experienced the same. I have advised about a dozen on the job where I am working who are now doing the same to others. The change in one night was marvellous. Yours thankfully,
G. STEMP.

WONDERFUL RESULTS FOR RHEUMATISM

119 Brunswick Buildings, Goulston Street, Aldgate, E.

Dear Sirs,
Thanks to your wonderful 'ASPRO' I have been more relieved from rheumatic pains than I have been for years. After taking all kinds of medicines, I was advised 'ASPRO,' and tried them with wonderful results, and I shall never be without them in the house, and I shall always recommend them when I can as I am so certain of their results.
Wishing you every success,
Yours gratefully,
(Signed) MRS. DEFRIES

Gratitude Expressed

Mrs Elliott writes: "Find 'ASPRO' excellent for 'Flu and Neuritis. Mother also believes it."

Influenza Stopped

Mrs. F. P. writes to say that a doctor told her that 'ASPRO' would shift 'Flu out in 24 hours and she proved that he was right. Never tired of telling her friends about it.

EVEN A CHILD CAN TAKE 'ASPRO'
Five simple methods of giving 'ASPRO' to the kiddies are: (a) with a little milk; or (b) crush the tablet up and administer in a teaspoonful of jam. RACHMANINOFF IN DUNDEE.

Brilliant Piano Playing.

Warm Welcome For Famous Composer.

BY OUR MUSIC CRITIC.

The second of the International Celebrity Concerts brought Rachmaninoff to the Caird Hall last night.

Probably no composer of the present day is better known by name than Rachmaninoff, and the famous "Prelude" in C sharp minor has been a sturdy and much-abused battle horse for half the amateur pianists in the world. Rachmaninoff, however, is no "single-speech Hamilton"; he has written all sorts of music, operas, symphonies, chamber music and choral works, even once a "Fate Chorus" for Beethoven's "Fifth Symphony," and last night he was well represented in a programme that had many points of interest but needed more of the sterner stuff of music to make it entirely satisfactory.

As a pianist, Rachmaninoff stands in the first rank. He had technique and to spare for anything he presented last night, and it must be confessed that there were times when the playing was more attractive than the music played His touch was singularly smooth and even, his execution clear and neat, and his range of expression a marvel of thoughtful art. If there was one quality more than another that made a direct appeal it was the rare clearness of his renderings and the lucidity of his readings. He could trace out a melodic line with firmness and clarity; he could emphasise a middle part with a sense of perfect balance; and many an arabesque was worked into the musical pattern with the most delicate of threads. His use of the loud pedal (see its significance in the early part of the famous Prelude) was a mode, for all players, and his tone was never blurred or noisy. This lucidity not only of execution but of reading and clear interpretation was a feature of everything he touched.

A Great Technician.

His principal piece came first—the sonata of Beethoven in F sharp major (not minor as stated on the programme). This little played work is subtle in many ways, and its quiet beauties are contemplative and genial. Rachmaninoff used a rare singing tone all through, and revealed the general happy feeling that pervades the work throughout. The Schumann Novelette in F, sharp minor which followed was marked by some exquisitely managed tone gradations and balance. It was shot through with vivid colours, and the varying moods were reflected with delicacy and crisp decision.

The third group of pieces was occupied with arrangements of familiar Schubert pieces. Rachmaninoff's own arrangement of "The Brook" (or "Wohin?") suggested no trickling stream but a tributary to a healthy spate. To know Schubert's Ave Maria is to feel its prayerful feeling for all time, and Liszt so transcribed it as to make it a pianist's holiday, and destroy its essential wistfulness. Tausig's setting of the "Marche Militaire" is simply pagoant music. The pianist's technique was equal to all demands, and if one grants it possible to march a tempo robato, then his rendering of the "Marche Militaire" was a dashing performance—it was certainly a tour de force.

The Famous Prelude.

The second half of the programme was less interesting than the first. Three pieces by Medtner had the charm of freshness and sound musicianship, the second "At the Anvil," having sterling qualities of vigour and rhythmic drive.

Rachmaninoff infused a pleasing grace into twelve variations by Tschaikowski, but even his charming playing could not make them all interesting. Two pieces of his own, the Barcarolle in G. minor, and a Moment Musicale, were attractive and pleasant works, but the difficult arrangement he has fixed up of Kreisler's "Liebesfreud" is more brilliant than meaningful, and more grateful to the successful performer than to the thoughtful listener.

But probably to many of the audience the chief event of the evening was Rachmaninoff's playing of his own famous Prelude in C, sharp minor. Now we know how it should be done, and we should no longer be treated to a thunderous first section and sketchy second, and a mere sledge-hammer finale. Rachmaninoff made it a lovely thing, full of delicate nuances, and replete with poetic beauty.

He is a magnificent pianist, unassuming and unaffected he makes no display of his powers, leaves much to the music itself, and for sheer clarity of interpretation has no superior. Few one would have enjoyed hearing him in a very great composition for piano.

TAY ROAD BRIDGE.

To the Editor of the Telegraph and Post.

Sir,—the letters from "Clarion" and "Lochee" in last night's "Evening Telegraph and Post" are both on the same strain, waste of ratepayers' money. This road bridge over the Tay and Forth should not cost and will not cost the ratepayers a halfpenny. The Government must be at the expense.

As I said in my previous letters, the last Government robbed the Road Fund of £28,000,000, the money of the motorists, who paid and are still paying as enterprising citizens. We have a right to see that money is put to a good use in furthering the interests of the ever-increasing motor traffic, which is now one of Britain's main industries.

It requires no brilliant intellect to see that the working of such an important crossing as the Tay by a boat ferry to a time-table, weather permitting, is out of date to handle present motor traffic.

Can our present six-wheeler lorries, which carry 8 to 10 tons, be taken on the Tay Ferries boat? That is the coming make of road vehicle. The works are running night and day shifts, and are still not able to cope with the demand.

"Clarion" refers to Scotscraig as being "a white elephant." That has been added to the wand of a road bridge across the Tay, and it will become one of Dundee's most valuable assets in time. Dundee at present is one-sided.

It is the other side that wants linked up. This will be once the road bridge is built to which I don't think "Clarion" and "Lochee" will contribute a penny.

At the end of this year the surplus of the motorists' road money would build the Tay and Forth Bridges alone.

Why is Perth the central gateway to the Highlands? What would make Dundee the central gateway to the North?—the road bridge across the Tay.

"Clarion" remarks about boys and girls of the Victorian period. He has changed his ton-gear to reverse gear. He need not sich for them. These days are dead, and should be left in peace. It's the future we are concerned about. If the man in the street says, "If our forefathers came back to the world as it is to-day they would go mad," and the other man will say "they would be mad if they came back, at all with high income taxes, super, and high motor tax, and the good old food at 12s 6d a bottle, which used to be 2d a nip. This generation will be remembered from now onward to the end of time as native an end to that great phrase which no doubt has been pronounced from the days of Adam and Eve. "You may as well try to do that as fly in the air."

This generation has got a new phrase—"Nothing is impossible." These are words that cheer on the present generation, no matter how black the cloud, there is always a silver lining.

"Lochee" seems to be in a wilderness when he talks about British petrol. Can he inform me where British petrol is obtained, as all brands of petrol have a foreign origin? As to the task of the squandering of the ratepayers' money, it is the motorists' money we are dealing with here. Money to the amount I have stated came out of the pockets of our tax motorists.—I am, &c.,

Pat Reilly,
55 Perth Road, Dundee.

ST ANDREWS DANCE ROW.

MAN WHO WAS REFUSED ADMISSION.

Ticket Issuer's Assault "Under Provocation."

A row opposite the Town Hall, St Andrews, was related at St Andrews Burgh Police Court this morning when Albert Gourlay, 86 Market Street, St Andrews, was charged with having, on Saturday, 2nd November, opposite the south entrance to the Town Hall in Queen's Gardens assaulted Hector Doig Morrison, hairdresser, 59 South Street, St Andrews, by striking him several blows on the face with his fist.

Accused pleaded not guilty.

Hector Morrison, in his evidence, said he arrived in the Town Hall about 10.45 p.m. There was a dance in progress, but he was refused admission because he seemed to have had too much drink.

Continuing, witness said that he was talking with some other fellows, when accused came in and struck him on the face. His face was swollen, and he had to have his face stitched.

Accused (to witness)—Did you threaten to say something to us?

Witness—No.

Did you not ask me whether I had set you into the hall before in a worse condition?—No.

When you got on to the second step, didn't you say you would get into the hall whether you had to fight the biggest man in the hall or not?—I don't remember.

"I do not think," said witness, that I look like challenging the biggest man in St Andrews."

Continuing, he said he remembered that he thought it was unjust that he was not allowed in.

Mr C. L. Grace, W.S., St Andrews, the next witness, said that about half-past ten on Saturday night he was just about at the Commercial Bank corner, when he saw a man emerging forcibly through the lower door of the Town Hall. It gave him the impression of a man being thrown out. He was followed by another man, who struck him, and the man who had been struck staggered across Queen's Garden apparently in a dazed condition. His assailant followed him, and hit him a severe blow, as a result of which the assaulted person crumpled up on the ground.

Mr Grace said that he could not identify either of the parties.

Police-Constable Dewar said that accused seemed to be quite sober, and the complainer was in a dazed condition.

Sergeant Mackintosh said he first saw Morrison rush out of the Town Hall. Gourlay followed after him and struck him. Morrison began to stagger ten yards down Queen's Gardens, and laid his back against the wall, and Gourlay rushed after him and struck him twice.

For the defence, J. H. Green, hairdresser, said that he noticed Morrison come to the Town Hall, and heard him refused admission. That was all he saw.

Gourlay's Evidence.

Giving evidence, Gourlay said that as issuer of tickets it was left to his discretion whether people were fit to get into the hall or not.

He considered Morrison was not in a fit condition, and Morrison certainly did not like being refused. He told witness that he had been allowed into the hall before in a worse condition, and said he was going to get into the hall whether he had to fight the biggest man in St Andrews or not.

Witness observed Morrison approaching him in a threatening attitude, and he also swore very badly at him. Witness concluded his attitude that he meant to commit violence, and acting in defence witness hit him.

Mr A. Doig, burgh prosecutor—You appear to have dealt with him very severely?

Accused—Well, it is difficult to see how severe a blow may be after you have struck the man.

Bailie Reid said that there seemed to be no doubt that accused had provocation.

He would find him guilty, but he would dismiss him without a penalty.

PERTH AND KINROSS FEDERATION OF W.R.I.'s.

The number of institutes in the Federation of Perth and Kinross W.R.I.s is on the increase, five new branches having been formed during the past few months.

They are Abernethy, Guildtown, Pitcairngreen, Moncrieffe, and Stanley, while the institute at Balbeggie, which was one of the first institutes in Perthshire to be formed, but lapsed for a few years, has come into active again.

For the further development of dramatic art for which tuition was given last year under the Carnegie Grant trust, classes have again been formed this year in which several new institutes are taking part. Five training centres have been formed in the Federation, and three instructors engaged.

The centres are—Pitlochry and Aberfeldy, with members from Kenmore (instructor Mr Arthur Henderson);

Perth centre—Burrelton, Bankfoot, Glenfarg, Luncarty, and Methven (Miss Blair. Perth);

Rattray and Meigle centre — Kinloch, Meikleour, Meigle, and Rattray (Mr Henderson).

Crieff centre—Lochearnhead, Monzie, Gilmerton, Monzievaird, and Muthill (Miss Holme, Lochearnhead);

Kinross-shire—Bishopshill (Miss Blair).

PITLOCHRY W.R.I. PROGRESS.

Satisfactory reports were submitted by the secretary and treasurer of Pitlochry W.R.I. at the annual meeting in the Public Hall last night. The branch has a record membership of 275, being an increase of 23 during the year.

The following were added to the committee:—Mrs J. Bell, Laurel Bank; Mrs Leighton, Riseachan; Miss E. M'Donald, Perth; Mrs C. H. Robertson, Struan Place; Miss B. Scott, Mpulin.

There was good competition in an apple jam and jelly competition, the prize winners being:—Jam—1 Mrs M'Gregor, Council Cottage; 2 Mrs M'Donald, Wolly—Mrs C. J. M'Rae, Station House; 2 Mrs H. Duff, Tomcroy.

Much interest centred in a special "Airwaving" demonstration given by Mrs Mackay, of Messrs Mackay & Whyte, Perth, and pinneforte selections were played by Miss Jean Beaugirdeaulte, Mrs Edmund Ferguson of Balednund presided over a large attendance.

The following were proposed by Mrs C. A. Miller.

A PRESENT FOR THE BRIDE.

The young lady who will soon have a home of her own is sure to be interested in the latest edition of Mrs Beeton's Cookery Book. Its 384 pages contain all manner of recipes besides helpful information household management.

This practical guide is cloth bound and profusely illustrated, and is presented free to every bride whose marriage notice is inserted in both the "Evening Telegraph and Post" and "Courier and Advertiser."

CYCLES WITHOUT LIGHTS AT ST ANDREWS.

At St Andrews Burgh Police Court to-day, Janetta Murray, housemaid, Imperial Hotel, was fined 2s 6d and 2s 6d expenses for riding a bicycle without proper lights, and the following were each charged 2s 6d expenses for riding bicycles without proper lights:—Henry Dunn, farm labourer, Monzie Farm, Auntruther; Lindsay Nicol, 11 Muttoes Lane, St Andrews; and George Sutherland, message boy, 9 Muttoes Lane, St Andrews.

MOTOR CYCLIST FINED AT PERTH.

Stuart M'Kay, the Bothy, Letham Farm, Bankfoot, was fined £1 at Perth Sheriff Court to-day for riding a motor cycle which was not licensed.

MR MACDONALD'S DREAM.

Statesmen's Wreaths of Boots and Cans.

Onions For Himself.

New York (Received to-day).

The story of a remarkable dream which Mr Ramsay MacDonald had is told by Mr Tom van Oss, a young Anglo-Dutch artist, who accompanied the Prime Minister on board the Berengaria during his recent trip to the United States in order to paint his portrait.

Mr Van Oss states, according to the New York Sun, that Mr MacDonald confided several peculiar dreams to him, but the most remarkable was the one in which he attended a big public function together with Mr Thomas, Mr Lloyd George, Mr Churchill, Lord Birkenhead, and many other political leaders.

"When he looked around," says Mr Van Oss of Mr MacDonald, "he was somewhat surprised to find that every man was wearing a wreath. Looking closer, he found that the wreaths were made of the most amazing things like old boots, discarded tin cans, neckties, seashells and dried fish, all very artistically grouped around the many lofty brows.

"It came to his turn to speak, and when he got up he discovered that he, too, was wearing a wreath like the others. He reached up and felt his wreath and it was made of a string of onions."

Mr Van Oss says that Mr MacDonald told him that he had been working under immense pressure before he left Britain, and he attributed the dreams to the restless state of his mind.

DROPPED MATCH IN PARAFFIN STORE.

Pitlochry Youth Fined £3.

Recklessness Charge at Perth.

Stated to have caused damage to the extent of £50, Andrew Goodfellow (17), Pitlochry, was fined £3 at Perth Sheriff Court to-day. Goodfellow, whose address was given as Craigiunnie, Faskally, Pitlochrie, admitted than on 1st November he culpably and recklessly set fire to the paraffin oil store at Tower House, Station Road, Pitlochry, occupied by Agnes Littlejohn Kerr or Millar, grocer, whereby the paraffin oil store and an adjoining store were burned and destroyed.

On behalf of accused, Mr J. A. G. Hunter, solicitor, Perth, said he was an apprentice grocer with Mrs Miller. The paraffin oil store was in the rear of the shop, and accused had gone to draw paraffin for an order. He lit a cigarette while in the store, and thinking he had extinguished the match, threw it away.

Still Alight.

It appeared, however, that the match was still alight, and it set fire to the paraffin, and the place went up immediately.

He did his best, but failed to put the flames out Mr James Clark, the depute-fiscal, stated that accused had been sent out to fill two tins of paraffin. A short time afterwards he came back and reported that the paraffin store was on fire.

He said that when he opened the door the store was a mass of flames, suggesting that some of the men who had been filling the tank had dropped a light. However, the police found that one of the tins had been filled, showing that his story was false.

PERTH TOWN COUNCIL MEETINGS.

150 New Houses Recommended.

The Housing Committee of Perth Town Council had under consideration last night the report of the sub-committee in the proposed additional scheme. It was recommended that 150 houses should be built, 100 at Darnhall Drive, and 50 at Florence Place, and that it be remitted to the sub-committee to negotiate for the acquisition of the ground; the houses to be of two and three rooms in equal proportion—subject to the approval of the Department of Health. The committee agreed.

The Shore Dues for October, according to a report submitted to the Navigation Committee of Perth Town Council last night, amounted to £32 4s 7d, compared with £75 13s 10d for the corresponding month last year—an increase of £6 4s 9d.

The Water Committee of Perth Town Council last night agreed to accept the offer of Messrs D. & R. Taylor, contractors, Perth, for the supply of a stone for the water.

At a meeting of the committee last night plans showing the proposed reconstruction were submitted, and it was agreed to remit them to the sub-committee for inquiry and report.

CORPORATION ORGAN RECITAL.

Interesting Programme Arranged.

The second of the monthly Corporation organ recitals for this season will be given in the Caird Hall on Sunday evening at eight o'clock.

Mr James Hinchliffe, city organist, has arranged an interesting musical programme, which he anticipates request numbers will be given. The vocal items, which include "Why do the Nations," are to be supplied by Mr A. B. Maurice, one of our finest singers.

Mr Hinchliffe has secured the services of that versatile and popular actor, Mr George Mudie (by permission of Mr Nevill Graham), who is to characterise monologue.

A silver collection will be taken. Programmes may be had from the musicsellers free of charge.

ST ANDREWS MAN WHO SPOKE TO THE "WRONG LADY."

Walter Fenton, greenkeeper, 25 North Street, St Andrews, appeared at St Andrews Burgh Police Court to-day on a charge of having on Sunday, 10th November, at the junction of Buchanan Gardens in Argyll Street and Hepburn Gardens, assaulted Jeanette Oliver, domestic servant, Mount Melville House, by taking hold of her by the right arm, and committed a breach of the peace by pressing her to accompany him along the Lade Braes for a walk, whereby she was put in a great state of fear and alarm for her safety.

Accused pleaded guilty, and said that he appeared to have spoken to the wrong lady. He did not remember asking her to go for a walk.

Mr A. Doig, burgh prosecutor, said that the lady was going home on Sunday night, when accused came up and spoke to her. She stated that he caught hold of her arm, and she became so afraid that she turned back to the town, and he followed her most of the way.

Bailie Reid imposed a fine of 10s, with the option of seven days' imprisonment.
