

Russian Pianist Assists Orthodox Church and Minister

Sergel Rachmaninoff, the Russian pianist, visited the Russian Greek Orthodox Church of the Saint Resurrection, now being erected at Seventh and First street. He and his wife spent some time with Archimandrite Antonine Provosky and were entertained at tea in the building, which is being used as a church until the edifice is completed. During his visit, Mr. Rachmaninoff left a donation of $400 for the building fund and expressed great interest in the work. He also sent a donation to the Archimandrite, of a supply of groceries and a travelling rug. He requested that his name should be included in the membership of the church. Mr. Rachmaninoff was taken to the church by Mr. M. Y. Aivazoff.
