

Saturday night performance, when the National Anthem will be played by the Varsity Band, in full-dress uniform, under the baton of Captain Slatter. On Monday night "popular" prices will prevail.

—✦—

Next Tuesday night the first of the season's major "celebrity" attractions is booked for Eaton Auditorium, when the great Russian pianist, Sergei Rachmaninoff, will give one of his strikingly individual recitals. He has chosen an unusual program, centring about the idea of "Fantasy," as this list will show: for he will play Scriabin's Sonata Fantaisie; Haydn's

Fantasia; Schumann's Fantasy Pieces (In the Night, Whims, Fable); Beethoven's Sonata quasi una Fantasia, Op. 27, No. 2 (the "Moonlight"); and Liszt's Sonata quasi Fantasia (After reading Dante).

—✦—

On Thursday night the Conservatory String Quartet, comprising Messrs. Elie Spivak, Harold Sumberg, Donald Helms and Leo Smith, will play the following program at Toronto Conservatory in the first concert of their regular subscription series: Quartet in D-major, Tchaikovsky (containing the well-known Andante