

New Plaudits Won By Rachmaninoff In Piano Recital

By J. P. ROCKWELL

Unquestionably Rachmaninoff is the favorite pianist of Los Angeles' audiences. Few, if any, artists ever get such spontaneous, enthusiastic and prolonged ovations as he received last night in his recital at the Philharmonic auditorium before a capacity crowd.

This famous Russian is as great a showman as he is a pianist and composer.

Last night the most amazing thing about his performance was his perfect rendition of the two Chopin numbers. Rachmaninoff's playing of the Scherzo in B flat minor kept the audience breathless and brought him a tremendous ovation at the close. His version of the Scherzo, B minor, was equally as fine.
