TOMORROW evening at Macaulay's a concert which is attracting the lovers of music will be given, when Sergel Rachmaninoff, the master pianist and composer, will be heard. This concert is the second of the concert series under the direction of the Ona B. Talbot Fine Arts Enterprises.

In most great artists one is aware of a distinctive personality. This is true of such persons as Paderewski, Kreisler, Farrar, and is eminently so of Rachmaninoff. Simple and unassuming in manner, radiating sincerity from the moment he steps out upon the platform, he creates an atmosphere in which his audience becomes responsive to the appeal of his power and virtuosity. The artist and the man unite in a remarkable degree in the personality of Rachmaninoff.
