
RACHMANINOFF RECITAL.

THE FAMOUS "PRELUDE."

It is announced that by special request M. Rachmaninoff, the distinguished Russian composer and pianist, will include in his recital at the Philharmonic Hall this afternoon, the prelude in C sharp minor, which has won for him so much popularity. This is regarded as a concession of no light order, in view of the fact that M. Rachmaninoff is understood to entertain a cordial dislike for the work in question.
