

Chicago stations were in the air everywhere and at all times. The first one received was WOK, where a baritone was heard singing "Love Sends a Little Gift of Roses," followed by a piano solo, "Moonlight." At WBBM a soulful tenor was singing "When I Danced the Last Waltz With You." An organ recital at WAHG (Richmond Hill, N.Y.) supplied Rachmaninoff's "Prelude in G Minor," which was heard so effectively last night at Massey Hall by the composer himself, and Massenet's "Elegie."
