

In pursuance of the plan of introducing guest-conductors which worked so well last year, M. Rachmaninoff is to conduct the Philharmonic concert on Tuesday, and appropriately enough the programme contains two of his compositions—a symphony in E minor, and a new pianoforte concerto. M. Rachmaninoff will, in his concerto, which will be conducted by Mr. Simon Speelman, make his Liverpool début as solo pianist. Mlle. Mignon Nevada, also new to Liverpool, is to be the vocalist at this concert, which promises to yield peculiar interest.
