

Concert at Metropolitan For Vacation Association

There was a gala concert in aid of the Vacation Association last night at the Metropolitan Opera House, and about $15,000 was added to the funds of the association. Those taking part were the Philadelphia Orchestra, under the baton to Leopold Stokowsky, Sergi Bachmaninoff, and Mme. Geraldine Farrar.

The orchestra played Rinsky-Korsakow's overture, "La Grande Paque Russe," Tschaiowsky's Pathetic Symphony, Chabrier's "Espana," and accompanied Mr. Rachmaninoff in his own C minor piano concerto. Mme. Farrar, accompanied at the piano by Giuseppe Bamoschek, sang two groups of songs.
